The shopping cart page is meant to be a small popup window in the center of the screen when the shopping cart icon at the top left corner is clicked. Simplicity is key to a good shopping cart design, so only necessary elements are included on the page. Users should be able to change the glazing and quantity of the items added and remove any items they don't wish to buy any more. Hence, every item in the cart has three actionable elements: a glazing dropdown, a quantity dropdown, and a remove button. Then, there will be a subtotal price for all the items in the shopping cart, excluding shipping fee and taxes. Finally, users can either proceed to checkout or close the shopping cart popup and continue shopping.
